

In summary

An Introduction to Geographic Information Systems

In this lesson, we saw some elements regarding spatial relations in general. We have discussed the notion of topology and the role of topological rules in the databases used by geographic information systems. And finally we have described the 4 main types of topological relations which are the adjacency, the connectivity, the inclusion and the intersection.

Notes

Summary

0m 04s